Unitarians Combine Song, Dance, Word

"Partridge-Pear Tree Rationals" is sermon title to be given Sunday by the Rev. R. W. Seebode of Pacific Unitarian Church.

The morning service will be a combination of song, dance and the spoken word, and as continuity is felt to be most important in this program, no one will be seated after the prelude at 11.

Church choir, directed by Bill Grantham and accompanied by Eloise Goodwin, will sing: "All on a Christmas Morn" and "How Bleak and Chill the Winter Wind" by Burt, and "Twelve Days of Christmas."

Judy White, Pamela Blue and Sandy McGee, members of the church youth group, will dance an interpretation of the carol "Deck the Halls," choreographed by Mary Jane Hungerford (Janie Lawrence).

Prelude will be "Christmas Chorale" by Deigenesch, postlude "March of the Priests" by Mendelssohn, performed by Eloise Goodwin.

Children of the church school will accompany their parents to the service, leave before the sermon and have their Christmas celebration in the patio.

A family vesper service will be from 5 to 6 p.m. Sunday. Prelude will be "Pastorale" by Grandados.

Mimi Titus, Vivian Stanton and Amy Seebode on flutes, Susie Titus on recorder, accompanied by Simone Titus will play "Rigodon de Dardanius" by Rameau.

The choir will sing "Silent Night," "Away in a Manger," the Spanish carol "Fum Fum Fum," "We'll Dress the Hall" arranged by Burt, "The Little Drummer Boy" arranged by Davis, "How Bleak and Chill the Winter Wind" by Burt.

Betty Seidler, Janne Bosco and Alma Nelson will dance interpretations of "Shepherds' Carol," "Go Tell It to the Mountain," and "Carol of the Bells."

Rev. Seebode will present "Tiny Tim" from Dickens' "Christmas Carol." Postlude is "Christmas Eve" by Milling. Bill Grantham will direct the vocal music; Mary Jane Hungerford the dance. Eloise Goodwin will accompany.

District Minister Discusses Unity At Jehovah's Witnesses Convention

"For thousands of years human efforts have been bent toward unity," Theodore Jaracz, district minister of the Watchtower Society, said Sunday, as he discussed the theme "Uniting Men in a Split-up World."

He addressed 2600 people at the George Washington High School auditorium, Los Angeles, where Jehovah's Witnesses gathered for a convention.

Jaracz cited as evidence of man's failure to unite, Babylon's futile attempt at interfaith, the tower of Babel fiasco, Constantine's fusion of apostate Christianity with pagan religion and such modern day schemes as the League of Nations and the United Nations.

The speaker identified the true means of unity as a force mightier than any human expedients.

"That force," he said, "is the quality of love for God and neighbor."

"Moreover," he continued, "the Bible shows God's Kingdom is the only government by which people from all nations will be united as a part of God's Universal family."

Outlining the steps necessary to be among the people who are united, Jaracz stated, "One must gain accurate knowledge from the Bible through diligent study, separate from this Babylonish world, put one's trust and hope in God's Kingdom, show faith in the Creator's promises by dedicating oneself to God and then make vocal expression of what he knows is right."

At a Saturday afternoon service 48 new ministers symbolized their dedication to do God's will by water baptism.

Wells Announces Sermon Topic At Narbonne

Christmas Eve services at 8:30 and 10:50 a.m. at Narbonne Avenue Southern Baptist Church, Lomita, will feature a message by Pastor Robert A. Wells.

He will speak on, "If There Was No Christmas." "So often people ask the question, 'why Christmas anyway?' To be sure, no one alive knows the exact day when Christ was born. The fact that God sent his son to live among men and to be the sacrifice for our sins is much more important. It is a day set aside to remind us of His coming," Wells will state.

The adult choir will sing "The Shepherds Christmas" at 11 a.m. service.

Evening service will be given to Young Folks. Various departments of the Sunday school will depict the manger scene. Singing by the Sunday school departments will also be part of the service.
